

5 Tips to Help You Register for Wedding Gifts

Are you looking forward to walking down the aisle with the love of your life? Getting married is a unique and memorable experience, so you'll want to make sure that you do it right, and that all begins with your wedding registry. Nowadays it's the norm for people to use wedding registries because it streamlines the entire gift-giving process for everyone involved in the special day. At Northampton Valley Country Club, we know that getting married is one of those precious life milestones that you won't want to forget, and the following five tips will help you get your registry off on the right foot.

1. Make it a joint effort.

You're getting ready to celebrate a union of lives, so why not honor this with your wedding registry? If you know that you are going to receive a multitude of gifts from people on your big day, you'll want to ensure that they are gifts that both bride and groom will enjoy. Building a life and a home together is a truly magical experience, and by sharing in the wedding registry process together, you'll have an opportunity to bond.

2. Give yourself enough time.

There's nothing worse than feeling rushed, especially when it comes to preparing for a once-in-a-lifetime event. If at all possible, complete your wedding registry as soon as possible. For those couples who are really on the ball, this means getting it done right after engagement. Fear not, however, if you're not as quick on the draw. You can still create a wonderfully thoughtful registry on limited time, but you'll need to devote at least an afternoon together to get it accomplished. It is recommended to register at least six months before your wedding so that guests have the opportunity to browse the list and make selections.

3. Think ahead.

What will you need in your kitchen five years after you've been married? What do you think you could use in your bathroom when you move out of your tiny apartment and into your new home? These are great questions to ask because they will help give you the foresight to think about what your practical needs might be down the road.

4. Consider prices.

Not everyone has it in her budget to buy a top of the line Cuisinart or an entire set of monogrammed bath towels. Remember the little people! By making the registry a broad list of items that you can enjoy within a variety of price points, you make it both fun and affordable for the people who might not have as much cash to drop on gifts. On the other hand, you can still list a few of the more expensive items, as well. Just be mindful of who will be attending, and what you think they can afford.

5. Express your gratitude.

Be sure to remember all of the people who helped commemorate your special day and who blessed you with their good tidings by means of a special gift.
